MRS. MATTISON B. JONES READS UNIQUE TRIBUTE TO HONOREE

At a luncheon given yesterday at the Mary Louise in Los Angeles by Miss Mary Foy in honor of Mrs. Clara Shortridge Foltz, sister of the successful candidate for U. S. Senator in the recent election, Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, who was chairman of the women's committee of the Phelan campaign, read the following toast to the honoree:

Lady Clara, Dear oh Dear!
(Lady Clara Vere de Vere)
(Apologies to Tennyson)
Lady Clara, dear oh dear!
There stands a spectre in your hall:
The guilt of blood is at your door;
You changed our hopeful hearts to gall,
You held your course without remorse,
Proclaimed aloud your brother's worth;
And, last, you fixed us with a stare,
And brought our Phelan down to earth!
Trust me, Clara dear, my dear,
Near the great dome o'er the capitol set,
There'll be another porch party yet:
And we'll all be there tho' our eyes be wet.
How're it be, it seems to me,
'Tis only noble to be good,
Kind hearts are more than togas,
And friendship more than politician's blood.
I know you, Clara, oh my dear;
You'll shine among those halls and towers!
The brilliant light of your proud eyes
Will search for us for hours, and hours,
And when you find us on the capitol grounds
We'll all join hands and go the rounds,
And shout 'till we are heard both far and near:
"Clara! Clara! dear oh dear!
The Gang's all here, the Gang's all here!"
Other speakers were Miss Foy, the hostess; Mrs. Clara Shortridge Foltz, the honored guest; Mrs. Shelly Tolhurst, Mrs. Florence Collins Porter, (Continued on Page 3)

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

JAMES M'LAREN HONORED BY PARTY GIVEN AT HIS PARENTS' HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm McLaren of 303 North Jackson gave a surprise birthday party Saturday evening in honor of their son James' thirtieth birthday. The house was decorated with ferns and a monster birthday cake bearing thirty candles was the center of attraction. Songs by Mr. and Mrs. Charles King and Mrs. Frances Fox followed by dancing added greatly to the enjoyment of the party. The list of those present is as follows: The honoree, James McLaren, his wife and two children; Mrs. Frances Fox, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. King, Mrs. May Christie, Robert and Miss Marie Goldberg and Harold Christie of Los Angeles; Mr. and L. W. Russell, Mrs. J. A. McGowan, Mrs. Otto Schuch, Mrs. Margaret Schuch, William Schuch, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Flach, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm McLaren of Glendale; William Stein and son Louis of Marysville.

Bail Forfeited

Jose Clores, the Chicago man arrested a few nights past at 1:15 near Brand and Broadway charged with driving an auto while intoxicated, and put under $300 bail for his appearance before Judge Lowe yesterday for examination, forfeited his bail and his disappearance, according to the story told to the court by his bondsman, Dr. Pena of Los Angeles, who put up a check for $300 which, of course, he forfeited. Dr. Pena told a doleful story of how he and Clores were friends in Omaha fifteen years ago and when they met again in Los Angeles recently he loaned him money and otherwise befriended him. He said Clores told him as an inducement to go on his bond that he, Clores, had thirty-five gallons of whisky hidden which he would sell for a big price and then repay all his friend had advanced. It is thought Clores and his wife are headed back to Chicago.

House Stripped

Mrs. Mary Ralph of 545 North Louise returned home yesterday from a four weeks' visit in Ventura and found that her home had been entered during her absence and almost completely gutted. All the silverware, table linen and dresses were taken and only the furniture left, probably because it was too bulky to remove. Entrance had been gained through a back window. Mrs. Ralph says her loss amounts to many hundreds of dollars.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Roberts and family of Simi were the week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Mason of 204 1/2 East Chestnut street.

CITY MANAGER GIVES REPORT

ANNUAL CONVENTION LEAGUE
OF CALIFORNIA
MUNICIPALITIES

HAS A WIDE RANGE

SUBJECTS OF GREAT IMPORT-ANCE TO OUR OWN CITY
CONSIDERED

Following are the main points of City Manager Watson's report of the doings of the annual convention of the League of California municipalities, held in Chico last week:

Chico, the convention city, is situated about two hundred miles north of San Francisco; has about 10,000 inhabitants and is the center of a large horticultural and agricultural district. It is one of the oldest towns of the state and is the commercial center of a large district in the northern part of the state, it being the largest inland town north of Sacramento. The business center is centralized within a square of four or five blocks. Streets in this section are well paved and the business buildings are large and substantially built.

They have an open square consisting of an entire city block in the center of the business section. Several of their public buildings face this square and it is evident that they plan to make of it a civic center. This block is well covered with lawn and large shade trees.

About two years ago the widow of General Bidwell gave to the city of Chico a large park which they call Bidwell Park after the general. Monday morning some of the business men of Chico gave the delegates who had arrived by that time a ride through this beautiful park. It is a natural park over ten miles long, but only a few hundred feet in width. It is covered almost entirely with a dense growth of oaks and sycamores, and has a beautiful mountain stream extending the full length. The boys and girls of Chico are well supplied as to a place to swim. This stream forms one continuous swimming pool over ten miles long.

There was a larger attendance of delegates than we expected to see, there being over four hundred registered. Monday afternoon and the larger portion of Tuesday was given over to subjects pertaining to city planning and city development.

Monday afternoon Guy Wilfrid Hayler, city planning expert, led a very interesting discussion on industrial development and the city plan. The following are a few of the points Mr. Hayler made:

It cost the city of Chicago $20,000,000 to better industrial conditions. Bad conditions for shipping and the carrying on of industries in the larger cities are driving the industrial concerns to seek locations in the smaller cities. California is now entering an area of intense industrial development and it behooves all (Continued on Page 5)

DAY OF PRAYER

MISSIONARY SOCIETY OF SUB-DISTRICT MEET AT FIRST
M. E. CHURCH

To all loyal members of the Methodist Episcopal church, the annual day of prayer is a day whose observance is held sacred.

The First Methodist church of Glendale deems itself favored in being chosen this year as the place of meeting, on the annual day of prayer, for the Woman's Home Missionary societies of the entire subdistrict.

Mrs. B. F. Geiger, president, and the other ladies of the Woman's Home Missionary society of the First Methodist church, will be the hostesses of the day. They have been fortunate in securing a very renowned speaker, Mrs. George O. Robinson, who has held the office of national president of the Woman's Home Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Other strong numbers of the program for this event of Thursday, November 10, are addresses by Mrs. H. O. Sisson and Mrs. Isaac Jewell, both of Pasadena.

Burbank Review Sold

The Burbank Review has changed hands again. Mr. Coffman, who has been the owner for a year or more, having sold it to Harvey R. Ling, who has been advertising manager for the Oxnard Courier for three years' past. The new owner will take charge on December 1st.

GREAT ASSET TO GLENDALE

CHURCH BUILDINGS IN PROS-PECT TO AGGREGATE A QUARTER MILLION

THREE NEW EDIFICES

PLANNED BY PRESBYTERIAN,
CHRISTIAN AND CATH-OLIC MEMBERS

Indicative of Glendale's growth and progressive spirit is the fact that three different church bodies have in view the erection of fine church edifices in the near future.

The Christian church is planning a fine house of worship on the site of their present church, corner of Louise and Colorado streets, where they own a desirable corner lot, 150 x 150. Present tentative plans call for a building whose cost will exceed $50,000.

The Presbyterians of Glendale have in view the building of a very handsome church of dignified and imposing proportions, at Harvard and Louise. Definite plans are not yet ready for publication, but it is said that this will be a $100,000 building.

Plans are now in the hands of the architect for a beautiful church for the Catholics of Glendale, to be erected at the corner of Louise street and Lomita avenue. Looking into Glendale's future and believing enthusiastically in her growth, all three of these denominations will build large churches. The Church of the Holy Family will probably cost $100,000 and will be an artistic structure, a credit to Glendale.

The corner upon which the Catholic church will stand is clear of debt and they have a substantial sum upon which to begin their building. The other denominations also have their sites clear of encumbrance and the funds in sight to begin building operations when they are ready.

Fine church buildings are a distinct asset to any city. They add to its beauty and increase the number of permanent residents. Many people hesitate to locate in a city where there is no church of their denomination; and if their church in a city is a substantial, handsome one, the attraction, conscious or unconscious, is doubly strong. The beautiful church edifices of Long Beach are recognized by its residents as being one of its very great charms. They are featured in story and picture in all literature sent out by the chamber of commerce, in special series of colored post cards, and in every special edition and annual number of the newspapers of the city.

The Glendale denominations who are aggressively planning these handsome church edifices are building not only for themselves, but also for the greater growth of Glendale.

Bureau Appreciated

Interest in the free information bureau, established by the realty board, grows steadily. Local people as well as strangers are coming to appreciate the service, and information on a wide range of subjects has already been asked for and given by Miss Halvorson, the willing and efficient lady who is in charge of the bureau.

Enterprise, progressive spirit and foresight were manifested by this commendable move on the part of the realty board, and Glendale is taking advantage of the new service as fast as it becomes known.

FINE BANQUET

ARRANGED BY M. E. SUNDAY SCHOOL JUNIORS AND THE BROTHERHOOD

The Junior department of the Sunday school of the First M. E. church, under the leadership of L. C. Leeds, together with the Brotherhood of the church, are deep in plans for a banquet.

Guests of the occasion will be the parents of the children; and when one entertains one's father and mother, it's a great event, for usually it's the other way 'round: the grown folks do the planning. Small wonder, then, that these young folks are making careful preparation.

That they are astute young people is evident from the fact that they have secured the co-operation of the Brotherhood for this Friday night feast, for the Brotherhood, as is well known, are famed for their skill in the art of arranging a banquet.

A GREAT MUSICIAN

AND FOUNDER OF ST. CECILIA SOCIETY IS HERE TO SPEND WINTER

Mrs. Ella M. Peirce and son, John W. Peirce, of Grand Rapids, Mich., and Chicago, are staying in the beautiful home of Dr. Francis Collier on East Chestnut street. They have been in Glendale for six months, having come to California to study the old missions, and to be near Mrs. Peirce's sisters, Mrs. George G. Briggs and Miss Frances Peirce, also of Grand Rapids, who have been in the Glendale Sanitarium seven years.

Mrs. Peirce and son are extensive travelers of foreign countries and of their own, and pronounce Glendale one of the most attractive and progressive towns they have ever seen. They believe it has a great future, with a touch of Italy and Spain in the atmosphere.

Mrs. Peirce is an accomplished musician and critic, and one of her early teachers is the celebrated Professor J. de Zielinski, of Los Angeles, formerly of Grand Rapids. Mrs. Peirce founded in that city, thirty years ago, the famous St. Cecilia society, so well known throughout this country. She was its first president and served several years. Among later presidents was Mrs. Edwin F. Uhl, wife of one of our late ambassadors to Germany.

This society was the first woman's musical society in the world to build and own its own club house, which cost one hundred thousand dollars. It is most complete in detail, and contains an auditorium with a seating capacity of twelve hundred.

This society has become quite an educational institution in the state of Michigan, and all of the greatest artists in the world have given recitals there.

MANY ENROLL

RED CROSS OFFICIAL DENIES REPORT PUBLISHED IN LOS ANGELES PAPER

Mrs. E. W. W. Hayward, who is in charge of the Red Cross Roll Call in Glendale, says she has some wonderful workers and she has every reason to hope that the quota of $2000, which is being asked of Glendale, will be subscribed before the 25th. Reports she has received to date indicate that Glendale workers have collected a greater per cent of their quota than Los Angeles.

Mrs. Hayward says the work was retarded somewhat by reports in a Los Angeles paper to the effect that the American Red Cross had refused aid to starving babies in Ireland. Naturally this was the cause of people of Irish descent and many others withholding their support from this movement. Mrs. Hayward could get no satisfaction from the paper that published the report as to its authority for the statement and so wired George Filmer, head of the Pacific Division of the American Red Cross in regard to it. This morning she received a wire from Mr. Filmer, stating that the American Red Cross had not refused aid to starving babies in Ireland and that full particulars as to the attitude of the Red Cross were being forwarded to her by special delivery. When this matter is cleared up satisfactorily the work of the Roll Call will, no doubt, proceed still more rapidly.

New Teller System

The First National Bank's business has increased so greatly that not only was it necessary to move the escrow business to the second floor but it was found to be imperative to provide more facilities for the tellers, paying and receiving. So three windows have been set aside exclusively for this work, with a teller on duty at each all the time during business hours, assistants taking their places during the noon hour, and a fourth for collections, making out drafts, etc. The first window, at which persons or firms whose names begin with the letters A to F, inclusive, is presided over by Wilbur Francy; the next, G to O, by Lee Childers; the third, P to Z, by E. L. Osborn, Jr. The other window is in charge of Ernest Morgan. The new system was inaugurated Monday morning and it works exceedingly well.

LOWEST PRICES ON LIVESTOCK SINCE 1916

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
KANSAS CITY, Nov. 16.—Lowest prices since December, 1916, were paid for livestock here today. The hog market dropped from 25 1/2 to 35 1/2 with a range of $11.85 to $12.50. In the cattle division, stockers and feeders sagged from $4.50 to $10. Tight money was blamed.

THE ROLL CALL

CHEERFUL WILLINGNESS CHAR-
ACTERIZE GLENDALE'S
RESPONSE

Red Cross headquarters report that people are responding to the fourth roll call in a most satisfactory manner. Many people are not waiting to be solicited by members of the committee, but are bringing in their membership fees voluntarily.

Others, either because they are a little less enthusiastic now that the war is over and our own immediate need of the Red Cross is not so apparent, or perhaps because their own affairs are more urgent, wait for members of the committee to come to them. But all are cheerfully willing to help "the greatest mother in the world" carry on her good work both here and across the sea where her good offices are still so sorely needed by those who are innocent sufferers of the wickedness and cruelties of the war.

Glendale Red Cross workers are assiduously pursuing the work of the fourth roll call, determined that our city shall hold her wanted proud place in things progressive and confident that our citizens will respond, as they always do, with enthusiastic and substantial support.

Double Birthday Party

On Monday afternoon, November 15, little Miss Jean Miller and her sister Barbara of 434 West Burchett street, celebrated their third and first birthdays respectively. Fourteen kiddies had been invited, but four of the younger ones found it impossible to attend on account of the unsettled weather. The ten who were able to be there were delighted with the table, which was decorated with wide pink ribbons draped from a shower of pink paper flowers around the chandelier to the edges of the table. The peanut men who directed the little guests where to sit and the Jack Horner pie were much appreciated and created a great deal of fun. A huge cake at each end of the table, one bearing a single candle for Barbara, and the other with three for Jean, were cut by the hostesses (with some help from the parents), and a beautiful ice cream cake decorated with pink ice cream roses, provided the refreshments.

The little guests were Betty Marple, Harry Marple, Lenore Wiebe of Glendale, Helen Bryant, Jerome Bryant, Jr., Etha K. Bryant, Eugene Greenwood, Beverly Whitaker of Los Angeles.

Miss McGregor is a lady of broad education, and her father is justly proud of her accomplishments in educational and business lines.

LOCAL BOY IS TO WED SOON

RIVERSIDE GIRL WIDELY KNOWN

GLENDALE FRIENDS

WILL ATTEND AN ELABORATE
WEDDING IN RIVERSIDE
ON SATURDAY

Of interest to a wide circle of friends throughout the Southland is the coming marriage of James Current, of Glendale, and Miss Frances Porter, of Riverside.

Particular interest in the bride-elect centers not only in the fact that she is to marry a Glendale gentleman, and become one of us by making her home here, but also in the circumstance of her being the niece of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Colson, of 405 East Harvard street.

The wedding will take place next Saturday at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Y. Porter, 182 Hidalgo place, Riverside. It will be an elaborate affair; guests to the number of sixty will come from Whittier, Sawtelle, Glendale, Los Angeles and other Southern California points to felicitate the happy young couple.

Miss Porter is an accomplished young lady of artistic attainments; she has been employed in the Little & Company Art studio in Los Angeles.

Mr. Current is the son of Mrs. Nancy A. Current, and is well known in Glendale. He is employed by the Boyd Construction company.

Mr. Current and his bride will reside at 405 East Harvard street.

Painful Accident

Little Nellie Perry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Perry, of 111 North Louise street, had the misfortune to break her arm by falling from a teeter board one day last week.

Both bones of the forearm were broken, but as the youngster is in good physical condition, no permanent harm will result. The bones are knitting properly and Nellie's chief interest in the incident seems to be that she "had to take gas."

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar H. Belew were week-end guests of Pomona friends last week.

Richardson Jones, son of A. Houston Jones of 376 West Lexington drive, is confined to his home with nervous trouble.

Mrs. M. Ewell Smith and Mrs. Alice E. Jackson, both of Los Angeles, were the Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Evans of 333 North Orange street.

Mrs. Chas. B. Guthrie, Mrs. Walter Stamps, Mrs. Arthur Cross and Mrs. O. O. Clark attended a luncheon given by Chapter U, P. E. O., at Burbank today.

Mrs. Cecil Gray has returned from a two months' trip to St. Louis and is now making her home in Los Angeles. Prior to going east Mrs. Gray was a resident of Glendale.

Word has been received in Glendale that Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Widney, of Santa Ana, are rejoicing in the arrival of a baby girl, Margaret Adele. The Widneys are former well-known Glendale residents.

A hiking party composed of Miss Agnes Tupper, 1003 East California avenue, Miss Helen Godar and Robert Godar, who recently came to Glendale from Kentucky, journeyed to the Verdugo mountains Sunday and returned laden with a quantity of beautiful holly.

Dr. Laura J. Brown had as her guest at luncheon yesterday Mrs. Grace Bryan Hargreaves, formerly of Lincoln, Neb., but a resident of Hollywood for the winter. Mr. Hargreaves is federal bank examiner for the Pacific coast territory and a strong booster for Glendale.

Mrs. B. S. Cook, who resided at 338 West Harvard street prior to moving to Hollywood, has returned to Glendale and is now living in one of the new apartments at Brand and Doran street. Mrs. Cook is preparing to open a restaurant in the new building next to the Glendale Theatre.

Miss Florence White, who came to Glendale recently from Boston, Mass., has been the guest of Randolph Bainbridge and family, 807 S. Maryland avenue, while looking for a location. She is so taken with Glendale and its people that will send for her mother and sister to some here to live.

Mrs. Thos. Elz, of 424 Arden avenue, has as her guests her mother, Mrs. Wm. Nugent, of Newburgh, Canada, and her aunt, Mrs. Lydia Bertram, of Napanee, Canada. While both ladies are loyal Canadians, they express a great liking for our Southland and expect to stay with us until snow has ceased flying in their home towns.

Yesterday's rain was the cause of a slight accident at the corner of Harvard street and Brand boulevard, when a roadster driven by H. E. Riehart of Glendale skidded in front of a Pacific Electric car with Chas. Ray, motorman, in charge. The automobile was turned over and the windshield broken. No one was injured.

The car driven by M. H. Finn, of 218 East Garfield avenue, had a slight collision with another machine at the corner of Main and Florence streets, Los Angeles, yesterday. Mr. Finn's car, an Allen, was only slightly damaged, but the two front wheels of the other car were broken. No one was injured.

Paul Davis, who was an employee of P. S. Card when the latter was engaged in mining with headquarters and home in Denver, Colo., has come to visit Mr. and Mrs. Card, who are now living at 450 Burchett but will soon move into the beautiful new home now building at 219 Patterson avenue. Mr. Davis expects to remain in Glendale permanently.

Mrs. J. H. Braly of 505 North Brand boulevard is entertaining her daughter, Mrs. Chas. W. Kirk of Santa Barbara. This afternoon they will attend an entertainment at the Ebell Club house in celebration of the 300th anniversary of the landing of the Mayflower. This is being given by the Southern California chapters of the D. A. R. A playlet, music and tea will be features of the program.

Evidence points to the fact that not all wives object to their husbands belonging to some of the popular lodges. A married couple, both of whom are well-known business people, were seen in a Glendale jewelry store yesterday afternoon, and appearances indicated that the wife was buying a diamond-set Elks' emblem for her husband, who was to "ride the goat" last night. You ask, "Who were they?" Why, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Phelon, of course.

J. L. De Laney and wife and their daughter, Miss Nelle, who recently came to Los Angeles from Lynchburg, Ohio, will soon be settled in their new home, recently purchased at 354 West Elk avenue. Mr. De Laney was in the dry goods business in Ohio for thirty years, most of the time in Lynchburg. Just before leaving for this coast he was sounded by a representative of a large wholesale house in New York City on the feasibility of establishing a branch of the business in California with himself as manager and he is now considering the matter, he says, with everything so far very favorable to the project.

About twenty members of the senior class of the Glendale Union High school enjoyed an informal dance given Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. Ripley Jackson, 1800 South Brand boulevard, for their son Kenneth. The house was decorated in the high school colors. Music was furnished by the school "Jazz" band. Both are experts who have been connected with large music houses, and who are now employed by the Glendale Phonograph & Piano Co. H. W. Covers were laid for twelve at a turkey dinner given Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Evans of 333 North Orange street to some of Mr. Evans' co-workers in the Harding-Coolidge club, which was in the nature of a Republican celebration. Lovely black and orange baskets filled with autumn fruit decorated the well-appointed dining table. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Hyde Braly, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Toll, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Chandler, Mr. and Mrs. John Robert White, Congressman-elect and Mrs. Charles F. Van de Water of Long Beach.

DR. H. C. FUNK

CALLED TO THE FIRST LUTHERAN CHURCH OF GLENDALE

At a congregational meeting, held at the Glendale Mission last Sunday morning, Dr. Funk was unanimously elected pastor of the church. Rev. Funk came to California ten years ago to accept a call to the First Lutheran church of Sacramento. The interest taken in the welfare of religious and civic affairs soon identified him with the active forces of the city. He was a regular contributor to the public press and was president of the Ministerial association for three years. Dr. Funk was elected superintendent of missions for the synod of California five years ago, and in this capacity has had charge of the Glendale Mission during the past few months.

Rev. Funk is a graduate of Carthage College, Carthage, Illinois. His seminary course was taken at Wittenberg college, Springfield, Ohio. Dr. Funk is also a physician, being a graduate of the American School of Naturopathy.

The decision as to the acceptance of the call extended him will be given by Rev. Funk at the morning service next Sunday.

J. A. NEWTON CO.

ACTS AS HOST TO BLUE BIRD CLUB OF SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

The Bluebird club of Southern California met at the White Inn for dinner and a regular business session Monday evening. This organization is composed of jobbers, dealers and salesmen of electrical appliances. Delegates from Pomona, Ontario, Santa Ana, Long Beach and several other cities were present. Ten representatives of the Newton Electric Company acted as hosts to the seventy-seven guests present, as it was through their efforts that this club meeting was brought to Glendale at this time.

After the dinner a short business meeting was held. Special attention was given to the modern electrically equipped home which has just been opened for inspection in Los Angeles. There are over thirty electrical appliances installed in this home. Approximately 4400 people inspected this equipment during Saturday and Sunday.

One of the talks given emphasized the value of the new electrical ironing machines. It was mentioned that ironing a large table cloth with a "sad iron" could well be compared with scrubbing a kitchen floor with a tooth brush. The machine irons a table cloth in three minutes and it would take half an hour if done by hand. A practical demonstration of the ironing machine was given by Harry Wilson, showing how to iron dresses, men's shirts, and the like.

Will Interest Women

Ladies are always interested in silk hosiery (at least, that's what married men say), and therefore they will eagerly read Gordon's announcement in this issue. The advertisement of this ladies' and children's furnishing store will hereafter be found every Tuesday and Friday on page three of The Evening News. In these ads each time Mr. Gordon will have something to say that will be interesting to the feminine world.

All Day Meeting

The Pastor's Aid of the Presbyterian church held an all-day meeting today in the church hall.

The making of quilts and other sewing occupied the morning hours, and some of the Christmas boxes were prepared for shipment. Luncheon was served at noon by a committee of the ladies.

The afternoon hours were devoted to the business of the regular monthly meeting of the Missionary society.

Killed by Auto Wreck

A serious accident occurred last evening at the intersection of Verdugo and San Fernando roads when a motorcycle driven by Arthur J. Kleinmeyer, 25, of Santa Ana, attempted to cross in front of a heavy truck, driven by George Plath, of San Fernando. According to witnesses the truck driver attempted to bring his machine to a stop, but, owing to the wet pavement, this proved futile. The wheels of the truck passed over Kleinmeyer's chest, killing him instantly.

Friends of Mrs. Elizabeth Armstrong, formerly of 821 Mariposa St., will regret that she has left Glendale, having moved to Barstow.

TOAST VICTORS

and Mrs. Lavinia Graham-Timmons, secretary of the women's committee of the Phelan campaign, and Mrs. O. P. Clark.

Miss Foy said when welcoming the guests assembled: "I want the victors here today to bear witness to the fact that two weeks after Nov. 2, 1920, the vanquished are able to sit up and take notice, and we are happy as women to do honor to one who has been very close to me and to many others in the past, during the suffrage campaign." She told of many incidents which occurred when she and Mrs. Foltz were officers in the Woman's Million Club. She then introduced Mrs. Foltz who, in turn, gave a most happy address to the guests and hostess.

There were three tables, one presided over by the hostess, Miss Foy, another by Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, and the third by Mrs. Lavinia Graham-Timmons. Ten ladies sat at each table and the decorations were exquisite roses in glass bowls. The place cards were tongue twisters, which the guests were requested to repeat in case the political discussion waxed too near TNT! A most delightful day was spent and the guests said they felt like singing, "Oh, What a Joy Is Mary."

At Miss Foy's table were Mrs. Frederick W. Houser, Mrs. Berthold Baruch, Mrs. Cora Deal Lewis, Mrs. Charles H. Toll of Glendale, and Mrs. H. W. R. Strong.

At the table presided over by Mrs. Mattison P. Jones, chairman of Senator Phelan's committee of women, were Mrs. W. C. Tyler, Mrs. Isidore B. Dockweiler, Mrs. Mary Wylie, Mrs. Jerome Reynolds, Mrs. P. T. Anderson, Mrs. Bernice Johnson, Miss Ruth Sterry, Dr. Jessie A. Russell of Glendale and Mrs. D. M. Foltz.

Mrs. Lavinia Graham-Timmons, secretary of the Women's Indorsement committee, presided over the table at which were seated Mrs. Florence Collins Porter, Mrs. J. W. Carron, Mrs. E. P. Brainerd, Mrs. O. P. Clark, Mrs. Estelle Lawton Lindsey, Mrs. Otto Neher, Mrs. George J. Dennis and Mrs. Shelly Tolhurst.

New York Visitor

Mrs. C. G. Woods, of North Grand View avenue, is happy in the arrival of her seventeen-year-old grandson, Charles Woods III, from New York City.

Charles has been living at the Wyckos club, at New Rochelle, New York, recuperating from a serious illness caused by his being accidentally shot last summer by a boy friend. To avoid the severity of an Eastern winter, Charles will be his grandmother's guest until next spring, and may remain permanently.

The young man will be unable to enter school for six months, and is looking forward to a glorious vacation in our mountain air, hiking up the trails, visiting with his grandmother and also with his father, William Woods, who is engaged in business in Long Beach.

The man who is able to minimize his talk will find the going considerably easier.

Birthday Musicales

Dr. and Mrs. Colin Cable, of 505 South Columbus avenue, were hosts on Monday evening at a delightful musicale, in celebration of the birthdays of five friends, all of these anniversaries occurring in the same week and three of them on the same day.

Mrs. Laura Stevenson Spang sang several solos in a delightful manner. Her accompaniments were played with sympathy by Mrs. LeRoy Bosserman. Mr. and Mrs. M. Paul Jones and Mr. Howard entertained with beautiful instrumental solos on the Hawaiian guitar, mandolin and piano. Solos on both mandolin and guitar, by M. Paul Jones, were other much enjoyed numbers.

Those who shared the pleasure of the evening arranged by Dr. and Mrs. Cable were Messrs. and Mesdames Harry Charlton, Los Angeles; LeRoy Bosserman, L. V. Ashton, Harry Bohring, Howard, M. Paul Jones, Charles M. Turk, Mesdames Fickessen, Spano and Fannie Charlton, Los Angeles, and Miss Natalie Fickessen, of Chicago, and Miss Bertha Fickessen.

The five "birthday children" honored by the Cables and their guests were Mesdames Harry Charlton and Harry Bohring, and Miss Natalie Fickessen, Miss Bertha Fickessen and Miss McGinnis.

Movies for Criminals

So modern penitentiaries are beginning to recognize how firm a hold the movies have on every class of society. "Any picture that can make the 'hardboiled' fans that frequent our nightly shows snifle and cry like a bunch of school girls at a canary's funeral, has in it the elements of greatness," says the Sing Sing Bulletin, a remarkable paper produced by the prisoners of that penal institution. It adds that at a recent screening "tears came to many eyes that have long been strangers to them."

Newspapers, too, must be supplied. This has caused the establishing of the Bulletin, with Charles Chaplin, former city editor of the New York World, now a lifer, as its editor. Justice may exact its full mete of punishment for crime. But man today has mental, spiritual necessities, things that were luxuries a few decades ago, and unknown not so far back. Certainly when prisoners of Sing Sing can be moved to tears by a motion picture play, there must be something in each one of them well worth retrieving.

MEXICO'S BANKS

FEAR OF PAPER MONEY MAKES FINANCIAL REFORM HARD FOR OREGON

By RALPH H. TURNER
United Press Staff Correspondent

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 16.—Of all the problems which will confront President-elect Obregon when he assumes the leadership of the Mexican nation next month, none will demand more urgent solution than the rehabilitation of the country's banking system.

Thus far Provisional President De la Huerta has left the question almost untouched, evidently believing the problem to be so immense that a short-term "substitute" government could not tackle it.

De la Huerta, however, has divided the question into two salient angles: First, a banking law must be enacted, establishing rules for the guidance of both native and foreign banks; second, a national bank of issue must be founded.

Around both features of the issue revolves the necessity of providing some form of reimbursement for the banks which suffered enormous losses during the revolution. Little progress has been made toward the drafting of a banking law. Several tentative projects have been drawn up, but none of them has passed beyond the embryonic stage and it is not likely any definite action will be taken until after Obregon's installation.

As for the establishment of a national bank the treasury department has at least prepared a project on the subject, which may be presented to congress at an early date. In this connection it is recognized first that the institution must be a bank of emission. Mexico today is one of the few countries of the world—perhaps the only one—which is on so thoroughly a gold basis that not a single piece of paper is in circulation. One issue of paper after another, during the revolutionary period, has either depreciated or been repudiated to such an extent that the public will have nothing to do with any money except that made of metal.

By establishing a national bank issue, the government hopes to restore public confidence and return paper money to circulation. This is one of the main features of the plan for the new bank. This institution, according to the present proposal, is to be known as "The Bank of the Mexican Republic," and is to be the sole bank of issue during a period of fifty years. The capital of the bank will be 100,000,000 pesos, Mexican currency, to consist of a million shares of 100 pesos each, half of which is to be subscribed by the government and the other half by individuals, local or foreign, and by other banks. The project permits the institution to issue notes ranging in denomination from five to 1000 pesos, the total of these notes not to be more than 100 per cent in excess of the bank's gold reserves nor more than three times the capital. The bank may establish branches throughout the republic—in this way the government hopes to revive the national financial structure.

How the Mexican people will receive a new issue of paper money, when the bank is founded, will form one of the surest and most severe tests of the Obregon administration. What happened to the banks in Mexico under Carranza, creating the present situation, is well described by Carranza's own finance secretary, Luis Cabrera, who writes that the First Chief, in 1916, "first demanded of the banks that they bring their reserves to a par with their circulation, later placed them in liquidation and finally confiscated their gold and silver, the banks as a result ceasing to function."

American Immortals

Election to a niche in the hall of fame is but formal acknowledgment ten years or more after death of the indelible quality of reputation. To be remembered a decade after one has passed away by any considerable number of people means that one has done something out of the ordinary. Of much greater moment is it if the memory of name and work lingers in the minds of ensuing generations appraisal of the merits of the dead.

Of the seven persons chosen in the recent election for the distinguished honor of a place with the nation's great, one was Roger Williams. He died nearly 250 years ago. His recognition, though delayed, may be a tribute to a man who when he could not agree had the wisdom to withdraw and build for himself instead of adding to turbulence by remaining where discord would prevail. Mark Twain represents literature and there will be public accord in his election. Alice Freeman Palmer is a representative of education. James B. Eads of engineering science, Patrick Henry the orator and patriot, and Saint Gaudens of art. Probably Dr. William Thomas Green is less known to the general public than any of the others, though his work in medicine won for him a place.

While election to the hall of fame is esteemed tantamount to designation as an immortal it is true that every individual whose life work justifies the choice has made himself famous long before. This honor does not make fame. It merely acknowledges what already exists. It reminds us of names that stand out from the masses. It is for the benefit of the living that names are thus enshrined. It is designated to impress the fact that deeds live after the doers are gone.

Season's Songs, Dances

Marion Harris sings two "blues" songs for Columbia Records this month, "Sweet Mamma (Papa's Getting Mad)" and "I Told You So." The first is a "blue" of a different color, while the other has the "bluest" of all blue words.

Eddy Brown plays both sides of a Columbia Record this month. This artist has recorded "That Naughty Waltz" as a symphony violin solo. As many people prefer instrumental music to vocal, they will welcome Mr. Brown's other selection on the reverse side of this Columbia Record, "Your Eyes Have Told Me So."

Everybody agrees that the Paul Biese Trio is making dancing records distinctively different from all others. For Columbia Records this month this musical trio plays "That Moanin' Melody" and "Rose of Babylon," both fox-trots rounded out by extraordinary saxophone playing. "Hawaiian Twilight" and "On Pensacola Bay," appealing waltzes both of them, are played by the Columbia Orchestra.

Yesterday's "Thrillers"

Every year or so someone "discovers" old Tom Harbaugh, editor of the Cap Collier, Young Sleuth and "Mad Anthony's" boys' tales of thirty years ago. Then a great hullabaloo is made over Tom for a while, and he is forgotten again.

Tom lives in Castown, a village of Southern Ohio, just where he lived when he wrote the paper-backed thrillers that made members of this generation shiver with dread at the villains and rejoice when right triumphed in the end. That, of course, was when these readers wore short pants and sneaked behind the woodshed to enjoy Tom's literary output.

Perhaps if you are old enough, and of the right sex, you remember one in which a big grizzly bear pictured on the cover, prowling the forest with a huge, red-dripping knife grasped in his paw. That grizzly would have struck terror to the heart of Sergeant York.

But what about the author? Did he chase the forest fastnesses, and was he ever in person with the rescuing party as it swept over the plain in time to foil the stage coach robbers? No, no, Tom's chief adventure has always been the trip between his manuscripts to the publishers. He makes an annual trip back to his birthplace in Maryland, and for the rest of the year just sits in his big library and dreams—thumbing over the bound volumes of his paperbacks—perhaps hardly suspecting the imprint that he left upon the lives of thousands.

First Meeting

Place—Geneva, Switzerland, seat of the League.

Time—November 15.
Number of nations to be represented—55.

Number of delegates—Not more than three for each member-state, or not more than 165 for all.

Number of delegates with power to vote—55.

In general, decisions of the Assembly must be by unanimous vote, but certain important matters may be decided by a mere majority or by two-thirds majority.

Presiding officer—M. Paul Hymans of Belgium, or Senor Quinones de Leon of Spain.

Secretary-General—Sir Eric Drummond of England.

Nearly every person is willing to let the law of supply and demand operate in the case of others.

Somewhat most persons seem to hold on to a lingering doubt much easier than they do to a real conviction.

There is not much to be said in favor of the man who is not willing to do the best he can when he is paid for it.

WHERE EVERYONE CAN HELP

During the great war it was not merely a badge of honor to be a member of the American Red Cross; there was supposed to be something wrong with any person who did not belong. This splendid organization mobilized the manhood and womanhood, the boyhood and girlhood of the nation, correlating the patriotic activities of all who had to stay at home while our young men fought in defense of the country. Everybody then realized the absolute indispensability of the American Red Cross, that it was to be a prime factor in the winning of the war against Germany.

Equal realization today of the continuing need for the full functioning of the American Red Cross would render unnecessary any special appeals in behalf of its campaign for membership. Hundreds of thousands of persons would hasten to enroll their names and promise their cooperation and support.

One emergency is over and we hope it will never recur, but if it should we must see to it that the organization which rendered such nobly efficient service before is equipped and ready to render it again. But there is a real emergency today which calls upon the best resources of the American Red Cross. Across the sea are millions of little children who are facing death from disease and starvation. From no other source than America is there promise of assistance. And in our own country there is no other agency with facilities for grappling with this situation. We Americans must enlist under the banner of the Red Cross to combat epidemic and famine in defense of these little ones. We are not asked to leave our comfortable homes and endure hardships and perils abroad. The representatives of the Red Cross will undergo that ordeal as our agents. All we have to do is to pay the trifling subscription fee and thus have a part in this great work.

It is inconceivable that there will not be a prompt response to the appeal for aid which the Red Cross so confidently makes to the American people.

THE RIGHT TIME

Does the man who swears his watch hasn't varied a second in months pester you? Does he smile every time you haul out the old double-plated timepiece that was your grandfather's, and explain that his make of watch is the only really accurate one? Then rise up and use the short and ugly word. There is no watch made by humans that does not either lose or gain from 30 to 60 seconds a month.

If next he offers to prove it, you can blandly explain that his watch isn't actually perfect—it merely is consistently wrong. And if your faithful turnip doesn't vary more than 10 minutes in a year, you have as good a one as the most delicate time-registering mechanism fashioned by man.

The unerring stars are the only constant clocks in all the universe. They have never been caught napping, and not yet has an astronomer detected one of them slipping ahead of schedule. They swing in their balanced orbits with an exact and perfect precision. When one of those shining worlds is due at a certain point in the heavens, it is there. Maybe it has had a million miles to travel to its destination, but the moment finds it on the dot. A million years hence, it will punch in on time again, just as it did a million years ago. Every star twinkling in the sky is a perfect clock, measuring in exact seconds the cycles of eternity.

SONS OF PRESIDENTS

There has never arisen in this country the problem of caring for the sons of presidents of the United States. These sons seem amply able to make a way each for himself, and this way has usually been one that reflected credit upon their illustrious progenitors.

It is interesting to note that three sons of presidents of the United States were elected to state legislatures at the recent election. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., was re-elected to the New York legislature; Robert Taft, son of William H. Taft, was elected to the Ohio legislature, and Russell B. Harrison, son of Benjamin Harrison, will be a member of the Indiana legislature.

John Quincy Adams was a son of John Adams, and Benjamin Harrison a grandson of William Henry Harrison. If usually happens that the son of a man who has made a place for himself in international and national life is handicapped by the tendency to appraise him not on his own merits, but rather to link him with the life and works of his father. Such an estimate of character is quite likely to be an unjust one to the one judged. Not all the presidents of the United States had experience as members of state legislatures before becoming president, but it is a preparation that should not be despised, for it provides the opportunity of learning something of the capacity of the members to understand something of state and national problems.

It would probably prove to be a mistake to dismiss these three sons of presidents with only passing attention. They may yet gain higher political honors than that of representing a district in a state legislature.

WORKING THE CONSUMER

The public has become familiar with reports of superabundant crops being followed by exorbitant prices and understands thoroughly the processes by which products are kept out of market or destroyed to maintain high costs. But it is only becoming acquainted with the companion method of creating a psychological shortage.

All through the spring and summer everybody was warned of a coal shortage and the necessity of ordering a winter's supply on peril of freezing to death during the cold months. Prices were correspondingly high and the dear public was frightened into laying in the winter's coal at fancy rates. Now we are informed prices have dropped 25 per cent in several fields. Railroad cars are available and high production assured with a resulting weakening of prices.

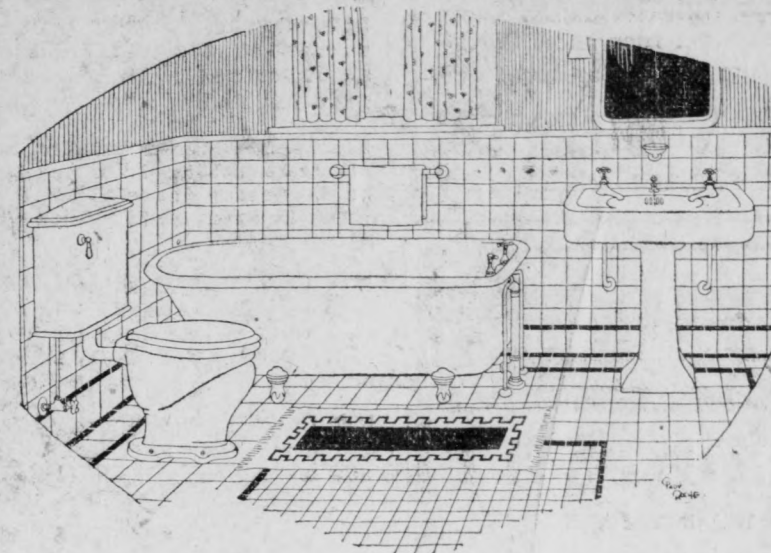

Those who, under the spur of false alarms, put in their winter's coal at fancy prices have every reason to complain that they have been bilked. Thrift and foresight are thus penalized while a premium is put on procrastination. What must be the effect next year even from a selfish trade standpoint? The public cannot be worked twice and hope of equalizing demand must be more remote.

Why has the president not issued the Thanksgiving proclamation? Surely we have much for which to be thankful.

The most disappointing thing about so many robberies is that the thieves do not get what is coming to them.

The 10 invaded and pillaged departments of France have produced this year 500,000 tons of wheat and one-fourth of the nation's oat crop.

New Art Group

LONDON, Oct. 15. (By Mail.)—A new group of artists is forming in London. They call themselves the "Tubists."

A picture painted for advertising purposes by C. R. W. Nevinson, the famous artist, failed to pass the Underground Railways' official censor who is responsible for all those advertising posters which bedeck the platforms and carriages. The censor's job is to see that the advertising designs shall give no nasty shocks to the moral system of all those provincial grannies and country cousins who have occasion to travel on the subways.

Nevinson's picture was intended to advertise a new play which was recently produced by Miss Viola Tree, entitled "The Unknown." This play deals with postwar religious controversy and the poster advertisement depicted a crucifixion—but the figure on the cross, though somewhat vague and undefined, was undoubtedly that of a nude woman.

"No," said the Underground Railways' official censor, "this cannot be," and Nevinson's picture was banned from London's "tubes," as the subways here are called.

Such a wealth of coloring and so much good taste is exercised in keeping the "tubes" decorative, that the platforms and passages have become known as "the people's favorite picture gallery."

Hence the "Tubists," who in their new school are vying with each other to succeed in satisfying the censor and "remain artistic nevertheless."

There is always a right way to settle disputes, but the man who is opposing you is not always willing to accept it.

One sign of poor judgment is seen in the family that is trying to live up to the standard of expense fixed by some of the neighbors.

When the price tag begins to talk in language that most persons can understand, it will have more friends.

CITY MANAGER

cities both large and small to lay plans that will enable them to profit to the largest extent from this development. We should first ascertain existing conditions in order to know what remedies to apply to correct past mistakes or to create conditions and facilities that will attract these industries. Transportation of people and freight is of first importance. Industrial workers of today demand quick and comfortable transportation at reasonable prices and experience shows that they will not long put up with bad conditions with respect to these matters. Transportation of freight for industrial areas is very important and the concentration of industries within limited areas admits of the centralization of trackage. This is important inasmuch as it keeps down the cost of transportation both for outlay and equipment and expense for operation. Mr. Hayler said that there are two and one-half million freight cars in the United States and that it was very important to the industrial development of the country that adequate means be provided to facilitate the handling of these cars in the freight and industrial yards. Mr. Hayler also said that railroad construction and development was away behind the business needs of the present day and that large sums of money would have to be expended before the railroads could meet the industrial needs of the country.

G. F. Hyatt, city manager of Coronado, gave an interesting talk on City Planning Work in Coronado accompanied by a few illustrations by means of lantern slides. Mr. Hyatt used a very unique and convincing method to illustrate the need of zoning. His method was to show several beautiful residences followed with a view of some objectionable institution located immediately adjacent to or in front of these residences. In this way he brought very forcibly to the minds of those present the damaging effects of undesirable buildings and institutions in the residence district. There seemed to be great interest on the part of all the delegates in all phases of city planning and especially that of zoning. A great many questions along these lines were asked by the delegates which were answered by G. W. Hayler, Mayor Bartlett of Berkeley, G. Gordon Whitnall of Los Angeles, and others.

Mayor Bartlett, of Berkeley, stated that the city of Berkeley had established three general zoning districts, residential, commercial and industrial, and had protected the residence sections by limiting in certain districts the area of the lot that may be covered by buildings and the height of buildings thereon. The Berkeley ordinance provides that the boundaries of districts as now laid may be changed by the governing body after due notice has been given to the property holders, whose property would be affected by such change. The ordinance also provides that in all such instances a public hearing shall be had. Mayor Bartlett cautioned against proceeding with new plans of zoning in advance of public opinion. He said the vital thing is to get something in the way of a zoning plan worked out on reasonable and conservative lines as a basis for future study and development.

Closely associated with zoning was the discussion in regard to set-back lines, that is, some means of regulating the distance that residences may be located from the street lines. It was explained that no definite legal procedure whereby this matter could be controlled had been established in the courts. Some of the attorneys present held that the city might establish set-back lines under the general police powers on the ground that wide open spaces were necessary in all cities to guard against fires; also that an irregular row of houses interfered to some extent with effective police patrolling. If this could be done the procedure would be comparatively simple, whereas if the city were obliged to act under eminent domain it would be more involved. The delegates generally seemed to be very much interested in this subject. Several of the attorneys present stated that they would endeavor to work out some procedure whereby cities may establish set-back lines under police powers and have the matter tried out in the courts.

G. Gordon Whitnall, of Los Angeles, led a very interesting discussion in regard to "Excess Condemnation with Particular Reference to the Opening and Widening of Streets." Mr. Whitnall stated that this matter had been before the voters of the state several times in an effort to have the constitution amended so as to provide for excess condemnation, etc., in connection with street opening proceedings. It was Mr. Whitnall's opinion, however, that the failures thus far were due to a lack of understanding by the public and that efforts should be continued to inform the public as to the advisability of such procedure. Mr. Whitnall said that excess condemnation has nothing to do with regulating the use of the ground acquired. Its main object is to reduce the cost of opening and widening proceedings to the adjacent property holders by placing the city in position to take advantage of the increase in property values created by the improvement and to apply the proceeds therefrom to the cost of the improvement. Mayor Bartlett, of Berkeley, stated that the city of London had recently put through an opening and widening proceeding by making use of the excess condemnation plan, or rather Mayor Bartlett chooses to call it the "recoupment plan." This proceeding was for the opening of a street four miles long through the main business center of the city of London, the cost of which was $30,000,000. About 80% of the cost of this proceeding has already been paid out of profits from the resale of real estate within the district by the city. Mayor Bartlett stated that this project would eventually be paid for entirely in this way.

Another important subject came in for considerable discussion. "Should the Cities Share in the Division of the Motor Vehicle Tax Fund?" This discussion was led by Fred C. Wheeler, city councilman of Los Angeles. At the last legislature a bill was introduced which provided that the city should share with the counties in the distribution of this money. This proposition was vigorously opposed by the counties with the result that it went down to defeat. From the interest shown in this discussion and the expressions of the delegates in favor of the cities receiving their share of this tax, it is evident that the question will be raised again at the next legislature. Mr. Wheeler said that the city council of Los Angeles believes that the cities should share this money and supported his statement on the theory that the imaginary boundaries of municipalities have nothing to do with the character or the traffic of these state highways and that it is of great importance to the state as a whole that the highways be maintained their entire length and that cities as a rule do not and cannot stand the entire cost of constructing and maintaining these boulevards out of their general tax. It seemed to be the general opinion of the delegates present that the automobile tax should be applied either through the agency of the state and county or the cities or possibly by all of these agencies to the support of the entire highway system of the state. This is a matter that vitally affects the city of Glendale as far as the maintenance of San Fernando road is concerned. There are approximately four miles of this road within the city limits of Glendale and it would require more money to properly maintain it than is appropriated in any one year for the maintaining of all the streets of the city of Glendale.

H. A. Mason, secretary of the League, also city attorney of Mountain View, presented an interesting paper on the Federal Water Power Act. On June 10, 1920, the President of the United States approved the Federal Water Power Act. The act is designed to place in the hands of the United States Government a certain control over the granting of permits to develop hydro-electric energy and gives a superior right to municipalities and other political subdivisions. Mr. Mason urged that cities take advantage of these rights without loss of time, otherwise all of the available hydro-electric power of California will be in the hands of private corporations. Mr. Mason urged that legislation be had by the next State Legislature providing that two or more municipalities may join in the development of hydro-electric power and that cities take advantage of such act to combine for the development of electric energy to supply their several needs. Mr. Mason further urged that the municipalities of the state take immediate action looking towards filling preliminary applications with the government as provided in the act so as to protect their rights for a year, pending the development of the necessary legal procedure as suggested. The delegates showed great interest in this discussion and the convention adopted a motion unanimously providing that Mr. Mason be authorized to appoint such committees and to take such other action as may be necessary to bring the matter suggested in his paper before the municipalities of the state and the State Legislature.

In pursuance of such action Mr. Mason appointed a committee consisting of fifteen or more whose duty it will be to interest all the cities of the state in this matter. In fact, Mr. Mason appointed four committees for the purpose of representing respectively Southern California, the San Francisco Bay section, the inland central cities and the northern cities. The committee for Southern California is Mayor Porter of Riverside, City Manager Grant M. Lorraine of Alhambra and City Manager T. W. Watson of Glendale.

Mr. Mason in this connection presented the following as pertinent facts: California is the second state in the union in the possession of natural water power, having a potential supply of nine million horse power, of which less than 10% has been developed. With all the available constructive force it will require about five years' time to create sufficient energy to satisfy existing demands. We have undeveloped mines, and mineral resources that can absorb thousands of horse power. There are thousands of acres of land to be reclaimed with water developed by electric power, steam railroads to be electrified. This and much more depends upon the quantity and cost. California has the quantity; it is only a question of cost. Every unnecessary element of cost should be eliminated from the production of hydro-electric energy.

One of the most interesting and profitable sessions of the convention was held Wednesday evening. The subject was "Public Utilities Regulation or Municipal Control." The viewpoint of the city was presented by Hon. Horace Porter, mayor of Riverside, the viewpoint of the corporation by W. E. Creed. Hon. E. O. Edgerton, president of the Railroad commission, was present and replied to some criticism of the commission by Mayor Porter and others. Mayor Porter complained that the government had permitted the telephone companies at Riverside to raise the telephone rates. He said the people were indignant over what they believed to be excessive and unjust rates making under pretext of war necessity. He said hundreds of telephones for miles around within and beyond the forty square miles within the city limits of Riverside were taken out, the people refusing to pay the excessive rates and were thus deprived of telephone service for convenience and police and fire protection. This was nearly two years ago. The people of Riverside have demanded a fair hearing before the Railroad commission on telephone rates, but have thus far been ignored in their repeated demands.

Mr. Edgerton later on in replying to this criticism stated that the railroad commission was not responsible for this raise in telephone rates. These rates were raised by the federal government. He said further that since the return of the telephone companies to private ownership the commission had instituted a statewide investigation and survey by competent engineers of the telephone rates in California and that in due time this investigation would be completed and then for the first time in the history of the state we would have a basis upon which to fix these rates.

Mayor Porter enumerated the advantages of public ownership as follows:

1. Municipal ownership pays no tax on municipally owned utilities.
2. Municipalities do not have to pay dividends and have no watered stock.
3. Cities can borrow money at a less cost than private companies.
4. Under municipal ownership the cost and trouble and unsatisfactory results of commissions and efforts at regulation will be avoided.
5. The people would get far lower rates for such utilities as water, gas, electric light and power.

It is found that private ownership charges an average of 43 per cent more a family for water than is charged under municipal ownership. It is also found that electricity costs the citizens often twice as much under private ownership as under municipal ownership.

Whatever we may think of public ownership in other fields there cannot be any question but we must have public ownership in these, water and hydro-electric power.

The state railroad commission has just made a report to the governor. It calls attention to the enormous and pressing need of better provision for water and hydro-electric power. It suggests state co-operation with private interests. "In my opinion," said the mayor, "this eventually will be done rightly by state or state and federal ownership, construction and administration."

W. E. Creed, replying to Mayor Porter, stated that he was ready to admit that private corporations had in the past pursued short-sighted policies and had looked too much upon their enterprises as purely private, but that the private corporation of the present day in California had fully accepted the theory and practice of regulation through the state railroad commission and their present attitude is that they too are operating public utilities in the fullest sense of the word (privately owned), and upon this basis they stand to give the public the best service possible at the lowest rates consistent with a fair return upon the money invested and that they welcome the investigations of the railroad commission and believe that through the co-operation of the companies, the commission and the public, the utilities of the state can be placed on a firm business basis and that capital will thereby be attracted to these industries, enabling them to expand to meet the demands that will be laid upon them by reason of the great development of the state. Speaking of municipal ownership Mr. Creed said that while he would admit that in certain isolated instances success could be shown, for every success in municipal ownership he could show a failure in municipal ownership.

William J. Locke, executive secretary of the league, replying to Mr. Creed, stated that the facts in regard to municipal ownership in California would not bear out any such statement. That the municipalities of California in the conducting of municipally owned water and light plants had been generally successful and had in nearly all cases reduced the rates below that charged by private concerns and that if Mr. Creed wanted the data on this he would gladly furnish him with it.

Mr. Edgerton was very frank to say that he realized the present railroad commission was unpopular with the people of the state. He said further that it was not particularly the duty of the railroad commission to fix rates and regulations for utilities based on facts and the best judgment that they were able to bring to bear on the subject. This he said the railroad commission was doing and would continue to do regardless of their unpopularity. He affirmed, however, that the time would come when the present course of the railroad commission would be vindicated by the people of the state of California. He said further that $700,000,000 and more was needed to develop the utilities of the state and that you could not go out and compel the people who have this money to invest it. You must attract them by placing these utilities on a firm financial basis so those who have this money will realize that their investments will be safe if placed in these utilities and that the income will be sure. He further stated that if Mayor Porter's address were sent out as the policy and attitude of the railroad commission of the state of California that not one dollar of this seven hundred million could be had, and that any such declaration as a policy of the railroad commission would result in completely and immediately tying up the utility development in California as far as private capital was concerned; and then he said, addressing the mayor, "Are you ready to take this burden up tomorrow?"

The discussions covered a wide range of thought which resulted in the adoption by the convention of resolutions as follows:

In favor of state and municipal development of the undeveloped hydro-electric power resources of the state.

Calling upon the state board of health and secretaries of boards of trade and chambers of commerce to discourage the migration of tuberculosis tourists from Eastern cities.

Calling on the state legislature to amend the motor vehicle law so as to allow the division of state fees collected in automobile licenses to cities as well as counties in proportion to the amount paid in automobile fees.

Asking the legislature to amend the law on assessments to permit municipalities to collect taxes from corporations doing business inside the corporate limits.

Petitioning the next state legislature for amendment of the public utilities act so as to permit municipalities to acquire ice plants as part of the municipality.

Agreeing that in cases where cities' interests are jointly affected in cases before the railroad commission that investigations and data be gathered jointly by municipalities and that the cost be pro-rated among the cities affected.

Calling on the state legislature to enact laws which will permit the widening of major streets through cities by aid from the state motor vehicle fund or through aid from the county. Major streets, according to the resolution, means streets which are linked with the highways tapping cities.

Indorsing and supporting the progressive program outlined by the California state housing commission for the betterment of buildings which do not meet the standing set by the housing act.

Petitioning the next session of the legislature to pass an act which will permit the condemnation of property for such purposes as the widening of streets and the acquisition of playgrounds.

Santa Monica was unanimously chosen as the next meeting place of the league.
